Response to Comments – Smart Grid Demonstrations Program

Question:

The anticipated award sizes for the Smart Grid Demonstrations appears to be low for the potential scale of the requested projects. Would DOE consider raising the federal maximum share of funding?

Answer:

DOE has received numerous comments on this question and has decided to raise the federal maximum share to $100 million per project under the Smart Grid Demonstrations program. In addition, the Department will ensure that funding is provided to a diversity of applications including small projects as well as large projects.
